BIOPTRON® HYPERLIGHT TECHNOLOGY

The discovery of Fullerene C60, acknowledged with the prestigious 1996 Nobel Prize in Chemistry, marked a groundbreaking moment in scientific research of the relevance and application of such a uniquely symmetric quantum nanomaterial in nanomedicine, general healing, and life-extending properties. Inspired by the Nobel Prize-winning discovery of the fullerene C60 molecule and armed with profound insights into the intricacies of life, Bioptron® scientists developed and patented the Bioptron® Hyperlight Optics® - patent RST/ER2019/065365.

Hyperlight (quantum effects):

A highly structured and harmonized form of structured light which is compatible with biostructures. Hyperlight carries energy-information from C60 fullerenes, interacting resonantly with biological structures to further enhance healing and regeneration.
